

The Art of Swallowing: Learned or Innate

This presentation takes us from the reflexes that we are born with to the full development of the swallow. In the process we learn, what every baby to toddler needs to have an efficient swallow that will be with them the rest of their lives. Discovering issues that may affect the swallow cycle, we discuss supportive strategies to enable children to learn.

The presenter, Merry G. Hill, a speech language pathologist, has helped children and their families with feeding since 1979.

Chewing: The Next Stage

This presentation takes us from swallowing through the different stages of how children learn to suck-swallow purees to biting and chewing. We develop strategies along the way to assist children in their development of chewing skills.

The presenter, Merry G. Hill, a speech language pathologist, has helped children and their families with feeding since 1979.
